

Camp Jabulani

Overview

Camp Jabulani represents the epitome of style, luxury, gastronomic excellence and warm hospitality. But at the heart of this five star operation lies a cause far greater than its tangible elements. This camp was conceptualized and created for one purpose. To support and sustain twelve elephants who by the hand of fate had found themselves in the custody of wildlife visionary, Lente Roode (founder and owner of the Hoedspruit Endangered Species Centre). The story began with an orphaned baby elephant, Jabulani (meaning "rejoice"). At four months of age, he was found stuck in a silt dam 100kms north of Hoedspruit, abandoned by his herd. Over a period of a year he was slowly nursed back to health.
